

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

ADOPTED IN 1846.

WITH A

COMPARATIVE ARRANGEMENT OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL
PROVISIONS OF OTHER STATES, CLASSIFIED
BY THEIR SUBJECTS.

PREPARED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF A COMMITTEE OF THE NEW YORK CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION OF 1867,

BY FRANKLIN B. HOUGH.

ALBANY:
WEED, PARSONS & COMPANY, PRINTERS.

1867.

L18229

DEC 19 1940

P R E F A C E.

PREVIOUS to the meeting of the present Constitutional Convention, a summary of the various provisions found in the existing Constitutions of the several States had been prepared by Dr. Franklin B. Hough, with the design of affording facilities for comparison and reference in the revision of the Constitution of the State of New York. This summary was examined by several delegates to the Convention, and soon after organization the undersigned were appointed a committee to take into consideration the expediency of printing in bill form the present Constitution of New York, with such comparative references as might be proper. This committee after a careful examination of the plan proposed by Dr. Hough, approved of its general arrangement, but recommended a more extended list of references, a specification of the page, in the volume of Constitutions forming the first volume of the "Manual," where the subject referred to would be found in its proper connection, and the adoption of the exact phraseology used in the several Constitutions whenever practicable. A concise statement was thought proper in cases where it might be desirable to present the various provisions upon particular subjects at a single glance.

It would have been desirable to include in this connection references to legal decisions upon constitutional points, but the brief time allowed for the preparation, upon the plan as modified, rendered this altogether impracticable.

From the blending of several subjects into one section, which in other cases are stated separately, a strict classification could not in all cases be secured, but to render this inconvenience less sensible, an extended index has been prepared, which will obviate much of the difficulty of reference.

As a general rule, provisions of a strictly local character, and such as refer to circumstances and conditions that have passed away, are omitted. Whenever these have been retained, the analogies which they suggest, were thought worthy of notice, as in some cases having relation to a similar application in the revision now before the Convention. Whenever reference is made to sections "nearly similar," it will be understood that they differ somewhat in the phraseology, but that they agree in their general statement. In some instances, lengthy sections, embracing minute details, are referred to without insertion, or with but a brief analysis of their subject.

—The end of the institution, maintenance and administration of Government, is to secure the existence of the body politic, to protect it, and to furnish the individuals who compose it with the power of enjoying in safety and tranquility, their natural rights, and the blessings of life; and whenever these great objects are not obtained, the people have a right to alter the government, and to take measures necessary for their safety, prosperity and happiness.

—The body politic is formed by a voluntary association of individuals; it is a social compact, by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good. It is the duty of the people, therefore, in framing a Constitution of government, to provide for an equitable mode of making laws, as well as for an impartial interpretation and a faithful execution of them; that every man may, at all times, find his security in them. We, therefore, the people of —, acknowledging, with grateful hearts, the goodness of the great Legislator of the Universe, in affording us, in the course of His providence, an opportunity, deliberately and peaceably, without fraud, violence or surprise, of entering into an original, explicit and solemn compact with each other; and of forming a new Constitution of civil government for ourselves and posterity; and devoutly imploring His direction in so interesting a design, do agree upon, ordain and establish the following Declaration of Rights and Frame of Government, as the CONSTITUTION of the COMMONWEALTH of —. Mass., 279.

—Grateful to Almighty God, the Sovereign Ruler of Nations, for our State government, our liberties, and our connection with the American Union, and acknowledging our dependence upon Him for the continuance of those blessings to us and our posterity, do, for the more certain security thereof, and for the better government of this State, ordain and establish this revised and amended Constitution. Mo., 346.

—That the general, great, and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, and that the relations of this State to the Union and government of the United States, and those of the people of this State to the rest of the American people, may be defined and affirmed, we do declare: Mo. 346.

—Grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure its blessings, form a more perfect government, insure domestic tranquility and promote the general welfare, do establish this Constitution. Neb. 370; (nearly identical), Nev. 379; Ohio, 432; Wis. 559.

—Grateful to Almighty God for the civil and religious liberty which He hath so long permitted us to enjoy, and looking to Him for a blessing upon our endeavors to secure and transmit the same unimpaired to succeeding generations, do ordain and establish this Constitution. N. J., 411.

—That the general, great and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, we declare. Miss., 334.

—Acknowledging, with gratitude the grace and beneficence of God in permitting us to make a choice of our form of government, do ordain and establish this Constitution. Tex., 505.

INHERENT RIGHTS.

—The free inhabitants of each of these States, paupers, vagabonds and fugitives from justice excepted, shall be entitled to all the privileges of free citizens. Art. Confed., 3.

—All men are born free and equal, and have certain natural, essential and unalienable rights; among which may be reckoned the right of enjoying and defending their lives and liberties; that of acquiring, possessing and protecting property; in fine, that of seeking and obtaining their safety and happiness. Mass., 280; (nearly similar) Neb., 370; Nev., 379; N. H., 398; N. J., 412; Ohio, 432; Pa., 467; Vt., 521; Va., 531; Wis., 559.

—Therefore, no male person, born in this country, or brought from over sea, ought to be holden, by law, to serve any person, as a servant, slave or apprentice, after he arrives to the age of twenty-one years, nor female, in like manner, after she arrives to the age of eighteen years, unless they are bound by their own consent after they arrive to such age, or bound by law for the payment of debts, damages, fines, costs or the like. Vt., 521.

—No attainder shall work corruption of blood, nor, except during the life of the offender, forfeiture of estate. The estates of those who destroy their own lives shall descend or vest as in case of natural death, and if any person be killed by accident, no forfeiture shall be thereby incurred. Del., 117.

—The estate of such persons as may destroy their own lives shall not for that offense be forfeited, but descend or ascend in the same manner as if such person had died in a natural way. Nor shall any article which shall accidentally occasion the death of any person be henceforth deemed a deodand, or in any wise forfeited on account of such misfortune. N. H., 409; Vt. 526.

—That the estates of suicides shall descend, or vest, as in cases of natural death; and that, if any person shall be killed by casualty, there shall be no forfeiture by reason thereof. Ala., 73; Ky., 224.

—Emigration from the State shall not be prohibited. Ala., 74; Ind., 171; Ky., 224; Or., 448; Pa., 463.

—Nor shall any free white citizen of this State ever be exiled under any pretence whatever. Miss., 335.

—That all the people have a natural and inherent right to emigrate from one State to another that will receive them. Vt., 522.

—No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken. U. S., 13.

—The General Assembly shall have power to authorize the levying of a capitation tax. Fl., 137.

—Capitation tax shall be equal throughout the State, upon all individuals subject to the same. N. C., 430.

—No poll-tax shall be assessed for other than county purposes. Ark., 93.

—The General Assembly may, whenever they shall deem it necessary, cause to be collected from all able-bodied, free white male inhabitants of this State, over the age of twenty-one years and under the age of sixty years, who are entitled to the right of suffrage, a capitation tax of not less than fifty cents, nor more than one dollar each. Ill., 163.

—That the levying of taxes by the poll is grievous and oppressive, and ought to be prohibited; that paupers ought not to be assessed for the support of the Government, but every other person in the State, or persons holding property therein, ought to contribute his proportion of public taxes for the support of Government, according to his actual worth in real or personal property; yet fines, duties or taxes may properly and justly be imposed or laid with a political view, for the good government and benefit of the community. Md., 254.

—No special privileges or immunities shall ever be granted by the Legislature, which may not be altered, revoked or repealed by the same body; and this power shall be exercised by no other tribunal or agency. Kan., 197.

—That a long continuance in the Executive Departments, of power or trust, is dangerous to liberty; a rotation, therefore, in those departments, is one of the best securities of permanent freedom. Md. 255.

—Government is instituted for the common good; for the protection, safety prosperity and happiness of the people; and not for the profit, honor or private interest of any one man, family or class of men; therefore, the people alone have an incontestable, unalienable and indefeasible right to institute government, and to reform, alter or totally change the same, when their protection, safety, prosperity and happiness require it. Mass., 280; (nearly similar), Min., 319; Nev., 379; Vt., 520; Va., 531; N. H., 399.

—No man, nor corporation or association of men, have any other title to obtain advantages, or particular and exclusive privileges, distinct from those of the community, than what rises from the consideration of services rendered to the public; and this title being in nature neither hereditary, nor transmissible to children or descendants, or relations by blood, the idea of a man born a magistrate, law-giver or judge, is absurd and unnatural. Mass., 280.

—No title of nobility or hereditary distinction, privilege, honor or emolument, shall ever be granted or confirmed; nor shall any office be created, the appointment to which shall be for a longer time than during good behavior. Me., 240.

—No office or place whatsoever in government shall be hereditary—the abilities and integrity requisite in all not being transmissible to posterity or relations. N. H., 399.

—That the Legislature shall not grant any title of nobility or hereditary distinction, nor create any office, the appointment of which shall be for a longer term than during good behavior. Pa., 468; S. C., 488.

—No title of nobility shall be granted; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign State. U. S., 13.

—That no person ought to hold at the same time more than one office of profit created by the Constitution or Laws of this State; nor ought any person in public trust to receive any present from any foreign prince, or State, or from the United States, or any of them, without the approbation of this State. Md., 255.

—No hereditary emoluments, privileges or honors shall ever be granted or conferred in this State. Ct., 108; (nearly similar), Fl., 130; Kan., 197; Ky., 224; N. C., 422; Or., 448.

—No hereditary distinction shall be granted, nor any office created or exercised, the appointment to which shall be for a longer term than during good behavior; and no person holding any office under this State, shall accept of any office or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign State. Del., 117.

—That no title of nobility, or hereditary distinction, privilege, honor, or emolument, shall ever be granted or conferred in this State; and that no office shall be created, the appointment of which shall be for a longer term than during good behavior. Ala., 74.

—That no title of nobility or hereditary honors ought to be granted in this State. Md., 256; Ind., 171.

—All freemen, when they form a social compact, have equal rights; and no man, or set of men, is entitled to exclusive, separate public emoluments or privileges, but in consideration of public services. Ky., 223; Tex., 505.

—Economy being a most essential virtue in all States, especially in a young one; no pension should be granted but in consideration of actual services; and such pension ought to be granted with great caution by the Legislature, and never for more than one year at a time. N. H., 401.

—The powers of government reside in all the citizens of the State, and can be rightfully exercised only in accordance with their will and appointment. W. Va., 546.

—None but citizens of the United States shall be appointed to any office of trust or profit in this State. La., 233.

—That absolute, arbitrary power over the lives, liberty, and property of freemen, exists nowhere in a republic—not even in the largest majority. Ky., 223.

—No authority shall, on any pretense whatever, be exercised over the people or members of this State, but such as shall be derived from and granted by them. N. Y. (1777), 26.

—The people of this State have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign and independent State, and do, and forever hereafter shall exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction and right pertaining thereto, which is not or may not hereafter be by them expressly delegated to the United States of America, in Congress assembled. N. H., 399.

—Nor are the people bound by any law but such as they have in like manner assented to, for their common good. Vt., 522.

—That every citizen of this State owes paramount allegiance to the Constitution and government of the United States, and that no law or ordinance of this State in contravention or subversion thereof can have any binding force. Mo., 316.

—That this State shall ever remain a member of the American Union; that the people thereof are a part of the American nation; and that all attempts, from whatever source and upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union, or to sever said nation, ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State. Mo., 346.

—The Constitution of the United States and the laws made in pursuance thereof being the supreme law of the land, every citizen of this State owes paramount allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States, and is not bound by any law or ordinance of this State in contravention or subversion thereof. Md., 254.

—But the paramount allegiance of every citizen is due to the Federal government, in the exercise of all its Constitutional powers as the same have been or may be defined by the Superior Court of the United States; and no power exists in the people of this or any other State of the Federal Union to dissolve their connection therewith, or perform any act tending to impair, subvert or resist the supreme authority of the United States. The Constitution of the United States confers full powers on the Federal government to maintain and perpetuate its existence, and whensoever any portion of the States, or the people thereof, attempt to secede from the Federal Union, or forcibly resist the execution of its laws, the Federal government may by warrant of the Constitution employ armed force in compelling obedience to its authority. Nev., 379.

—Every member of the community has a right to be protected by it in the enjoyment of his life, liberty, and property. He is therefore bound to contribute his share in the expense of such protection, and to yield his personal service, when necessary, or an equivalent. N. H. 399; (nearly similar), Vt., 520.

—Protection to person and property is the duty of government. Ga., 142.

—All political power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority, and instituted for their benefit; and they have, at all times, the unalienable right to alter, reform, or abolish their form of government, in such manner as they may think expedient. Tex. 505; (nearly similar) Ohio 473; Pa. 467; S. C. 487; N. C. 421; Mo. 346; N. H. 399.

—That we hold it to be self-evident that all men are created equally free; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, the enjoyment of the proceeds of their own labor, and the pursuit of happiness. Md., 253.

—That the people of this State, by their legal Representatives, have the sole, inherent and exclusive right of governing and regulating the internal police of the same. Vt., 521.

—That all government of right originates from the people, is founded in compact only, and instituted solely for the good of the whole; and they have at all times the unalienable right to alter, reform or abolish their form of government in such manner as they may deem expedient. Md., 253.

—That all men, when they form a social compact, are equal in rights; and that no man or set of men, are entitled to exclusive public emoluments, or privileges, from the community. Ct., 107; Or., 447; Miss., 334.

—That all men when they form a social compact, are equal, and have certain inherent and indefeasible rights, amongst which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; of acquiring, possessing and protecting property and reputation, and of pursuing their own happiness. Ark., 84; Fl., 129.

—That the people of this State ought to have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof. Md., 253.

—All power residing originally in the people, and being derived from them, the several magistrates and officers of government, vested with authority, whether legislative, executive or judicial, are the substitutes and agents, and are at all times accountable to them. Mass., 280.

—All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness. Cal., 96; (substantially similar), Ill., 165; Iowa, 183; Kan., 196; Me., 239; Mo., 396.

—When men enter into a state of society they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to procure the protection of others, and without such equivalent the surrender is void. N. H., 398.

—Through Divine goodness all men, have, by nature, the rights of worshipping and serving their Creator according to the dictates of their consciences, of enjoying and defending life and liberty, of acquiring and protecting reputation and property, and, in general of attaining objects suitable to their condition, without injury by one to another; and as these rights are essential to their welfare, for the due exercise thereof, power is inherent in them; and therefore all just authority in the institutions of political society is derived from the people, and established with their consent, to advance their happiness: And they may for this end, as circumstances require, from time to time, alter their Constitution of government. Del., 116.

—The General Assembly shall not grant to any citizen, or class of citizens, privileges, or immunities, which, upon the same terms, shall not equally belong to all citizens. Ind., 171.

—That no man, and no set of men, are entitled to exclusive, separate public emoluments or privileges, but in consideration of public services. Ala., 72; Tex., 508; Va., 531; N. C., 421.

—The Legislature shall pass no law requiring a property qualification for office. La., 235.

—We declare that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that all power is inherent in the people; and that all free governments are, and of right ought to be, founded on their authority, and instituted for their peace, safety and well being. For the advancement of these ends, the people have, at all times, an indefeasible right to alter and reform their government. Ind., 170.

—All political power is inherent to the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people; and they have the right to alter or reform the same whenever the public good may require it. Cal., 96; (nearly similar) Iowa, 183; Kan., 197; Ky., 223; Miss., 334; N. J., 412; Or., 447; R. I., 473; Tenn., 490; Va., 531; Vt., 521.

—That all power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority, and instituted for their peace, safety and happiness. Ill., 165; Me., 239.

—They have, therefore, an unalienable and indefeasible right to institute government, and to alter, reform, or totally change the same, when their safety and happiness require it. Me., 239.

—That all persons invested with the Legislative or Executive powers of Government are the trustees of the public, and as such accountable for their conduct; wherefore, whenever the ends of Government are perverted, and public liberty manifestly endangered, and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may and of right ought to reform the old or establish a new government. The doctrine of non-resistance against arbitrary power and oppression is absurd, slavish and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind. Md., 254.

—That the people of this State have the inherent, sole, and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof, and of altering and abolishing their Constitution and form of government, whenever it may be necessary to their safety and happiness; but every such right should be exercised in pursuance of law, and consistently with the Constitution of the United States. Mo., 346.

therefore, they have at all times an inalienable and indefeasible right to alter, reform or abolish their form of government in such manner as they may deem expedient. Ala. 72; (substantially similar), Ark. 84; Cl. 107; Fl. 129.

(1) [Thus far in Constitution of 1821, with the following addition:] "And no new court shall be instituted, but such as shall proceed according to the course of the common law; except such courts of equity, as the Legislature is herein authorized to establish." P. 41.

(2) [Similar provision], N. Y., (1777), and Mass., 319; Mich., 307; Nev. 379.

—The Legislative Assembly shall so provide that the most competent of the permanent citizens of the county shall be chosen for jurors; and out of the whole number in attendance at the court, seven shall be drawn by lot as grand jurors, five of whom must concur to find an indictment; but the Legislative Assembly may modify or abolish grand juries. Or., 454.

—The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate; and shall extend to all cases at law, without regard to the amount in controversy; but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all cases, in the manner prescribed by law. Wis. 560.

—It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as free, impartial and independent as the lot of humanity will admit. It is, therefore, not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, and of every citizen, that the Judges of the Supreme Judicial Court should hold their offices as long as they behave themselves well, and that they should have honorable salaries ascertained and established by standing laws. Mass., 282.

—That no person shall be put to answer any criminal charge, but by presentment, indictment or impeachment, except in such cases as the Legislature shall otherwise provide; but the Legislature shall pass no law whereby any person shall be required to answer any criminal charge involving the life of the accused, except upon indictment or presentment by a Grand Jury. Fl., 120.

—In suits at common law, where the value in controversy exceeds twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury, if required by either party, shall be preserved. No fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any case than according to the rules of the common law. W. Va., 547.

—The trial by jury, as heretofore used in this State, and the liberty of the press, shall be forever inviolably preserved. But the General Assembly shall have power to determine the number of persons who shall constitute the jury in the inferior and District Courts. S. C., 488.

—No person shall be taken, or imprisoned, or dis seized of his freehold, liberties or privileges, or outlawed or exiled, or in any manner deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by due process of law; nor shall any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, ever be passed by the General Assembly. S. C., 487.

—That no person can, for an indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia when in actual service in the time of war or public danger, or by leave of court, for oppression or misdemeanor in office. Mo., 347.

—That in all controversies at law, respecting property, the ancient mode of trial by jury is one of the best securities of the rights of the people, and ought to remain sacred and inviolable. N. C., 422.

—The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate forever; but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all civil cases, in the manner to be described by law; and in civil cases if three-fourths of the jury agree upon a verdict, it shall stand and have the same force and effect as a verdict by the whole jury: Provided, The Legislature, by a law passed by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to each branch thereof, may require a unanimous verdict notwithstanding this provision. Nev., 379.

—The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate; but the Legislature may authorize the trial of civil suits, when the matter in dispute does not exceed fifty dollars, by a jury of six men. N. J., 412.

—In all controversies concerning property, and in all suits between two or more persons, except in cases in which it has been heretofore otherwise used and practiced, the parties have a right to trial by jury; and this method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in cases arising on the high seas, and such as relate to mariners' wages, the Legislature shall think it necessary hereafter to alter it. N. H., 400.

—In criminal prosecutions, the trial of the facts in the vicinity where they happen is so essential to the security of the life, liberty and estate of the citizen, that no crime or offense ought to be tried in any other county than that in which it is committed; except in cases of general insurrection in any particular county, when it shall appear to the Judges of the Superior Court that an impartial trial cannot be had in the county where the offense may be committed, and upon their report, the Legislature shall think proper to direct the trial in the nearest county in which an impartial trial can be obtained. N. H., 400.

—That no person shall, for any indictable offense, be proceeded against criminally by information; except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia when in actual service, or by leave of the court, for misdemeanor in office. Provided, That the Legislature in case of petit larceny, assault, assault and battery, affray, riot, unlawful assembly, drunkenness, vagrancy, and other misdemeanors of like character, may dispense with an inquest of a grand jury, and may authorize prosecutions before Justices of the Peace, or such other inferior court or courts as may be established by the Legislature; and the proceedings in such cases shall be regulated by law. Miss., 335; (nearly similar), Ala., 73.

—No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by Justices of the Peace, or arising in the army or navy, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war, or public danger; and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself. All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require. Neb., 370.

1 § 3. The free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship,
 2 without discrimination or preference, shall forever be allowed in this State to
 3 all mankind; (1) and no person shall be rendered incompetent to be a witness 4 on account of his opinions on matters of religious belief; (2) but the liberty of 5 conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentious-
 6 ness, or to justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of this State.(3)

(1). [The clause relating to incompetency of witnesses on account of religious belief, is not included in N. Y. Constitution of 1821.]

[A preamble giving reasons]. N. Y., (1777), 32.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

—Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. U. S., 18.

—That religion, or the duty which we owe to our Creator, and the manner of discharging it, can be directed only by reason and conviction, not by force or violence; and, therefore, all men are equally entitled to the free exercise of religion, according to the dictates of conscience; and that it is the mutual duty of all to practice Christian forbearance, love and charity towards each other. Va., 532.

—That no person within this State shall, upon any pretense whatever, be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping God in the manner most agreeable to his own conscience; nor be hurt, molested or restrained in his religious profession, sentiments or persuasions, provided he does not disturb others in their religious worship. Ala., 72.

—That all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences; and no man can, of right, be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any ministry against his consent; that no human authority can, in any case whatever, interfere with the rights of conscience; and that no preference shall ever be given to any religious establishment or mode of worship. Ark., 84; Ill., 165; Tenn., 490; Pa., 467; Tex., 506; Mo., 346.

—But nothing herein shall be construed to dispense with oaths and affirmations. Religion, morality and knowledge, however, being essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to pass suitable laws to protect every religious denomination in the peaceable enjoyment of its own mode of public worship, and to encourage schools and the means of instruction. Ohio, 432; Neb., 371.

—That no religion shall be established by law; that no preference shall be given by law to any religious sect, society, denomination, or mode of worship, that no one shall be compelled by law to attend any place of worship, nor to pay any tithes, taxes, or other rate, for building or repairing any place of worship, or for maintaining any minister or ministry; that no religious test shall be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under this State; and that the civil rights, privileges and capacities of any citizen shall not be in any manner affected by his religious principles. Ala., 72.

—That no other test or qualification ought to be required on admission to any office of trust or profit than such oath of allegiance and fidelity to this State and the United States as may be prescribed by this Constitution, and such oath of office and qualification as may be prescribed by this Constitution, or by the laws of the State, and a declaration of belief in the Christian religion, or in the existence of God, and in a future state of rewards and punishments. Md., 25.

—That the civil rights, privileges or capacities of any citizen shall in no wise be diminished or enlarged on account of his religion. Ark., 84; Ky., 223.

—The right to worship God according to the dictates of conscience shall never be infringed; nor shall any person be compelled to attend or support any form of worship; nor shall any control of, or interference with, the rights of conscience be permitted; nor any preference be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship. No religious test or property qualification shall be required for any office of public trust, nor for any vote at any election; nor shall any person be incompetent to testify on account of religious belief. Kan., 187.

—And whereas, the ministers of the gospel are, by their profession, dedicated to the service of God, and the cure of souls, and ought not to be diverted from the great duties of their functions; therefore, no minister of the gospel, or priest of any denomination whatsoever, shall at any time hereafter under any pretense or description whatever, be eligible to, or capable of holding, any civil or military office or place within this State. N. Y., (1777), 33, (1821,) 41.

—Therefore no minister of the gospel, or priest of any denomination whatever, shall be eligible to a seat in either House of the Legislature. Tenn., 498; (similar provision), La., 229; N. C., 425; Va., 536.

—No licensed minister of the Gospel shall be required to perform military duty, work on roads, or serve on juries in this State. Tex., 514.

—No sectarian instruction shall be imparted or tolerated in any school or university that may be established under this Constitution. Nev., 391.

—Therefore no minister of the gospel, or public preacher of any religious persuasion, whilst he continues in the exercise of his pastoral functions, shall be eligible to the office of Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, or to a seat in the Senate or House of Representatives. S. C., 484; Tex., 509.

—The Legislature shall not diminish or enlarge the civil or political rights, privileges and capacities of any person on account of his opinion or belief concerning matters of religion. Mich., 304.

—No man shall be compelled to frequent or support any religious worship, place or ministry whatsoever; nor shall any man be enforced, restrained, molested or burdened in his body or goods, or otherwise suffer, on account of his religious belief; but all men shall be free to profess, and by argument to maintain, their opinions in matters of religion, and the same shall in no wise affect, diminish or enlarge their civil capacities. And the Legislature shall not prescribe any religious test whatever; or confer any peculiar privileges or advantages on any sect or denomination; or pass any law requiring or authorizing any religious society, or the people of any district within this State, to levy on themselves or others, any tax for the erection or repair of any house for public worship, or for the support of any church or ministry; but it shall be left to every person to select his religious instructor, and to make for his support, such private contract as he shall please. Va., 537; W. Va., 547.

—The militia of this State shall, at all times hereafter, be armed and disciplined, and in readiness for service; but all such inhabitants of this State, of any religious denomination whatever, as from scruples of conscience, may be adverse to bearing arms, shall be excused therefrom by paying to the State an equivalent in money; and the Legislature shall provide by law for the collection of such equivalent, to be estimated according to the expense, in time and money, of an ordinary, able-bodied militia-man. N. Y., (1821), 41.

—Among the natural rights, some are in their very nature unalienable, because no equivalent can be given or received for them. One of this kind are rights of conscience. N. H., 398.

—No person shall be rendered incompetent to be a witness on account of his opinions on matters of religious belief. Mich., 307.

—As the public worship of God, and instructions in piety, religion and morality, promote the happiness and prosperity of a people, and the security of a republican government, therefore the several religious societies of this Commonwealth, whether corporate or unincorporate, at any meeting legally warned and holden for that purpose, shall ever have the right to elect their pastors or religious teachers, to contract with them for their support, to raise money for erecting and repairing houses for public worship, for the maintenance of religious instruction, and for the payment of necessary expenses; and all persons belonging to any religious society shall be taken and held to be members, until they shall file with the clerk of such society a written notice declaring the dissolution of their membership, and thenceforth shall not be liable for any grant or contract which may be thereafter made or entered into by such society; and all religious sects and denominations, demeaning themselves peaceably, and as good citizens of the Commonwealth, shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law. Mass., 296.

—That there shall be no establishment of any one religious church or denomination in this State in preference to any other; neither shall any person, on any pretense whatsoever, be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his own faith or judgment, nor be obliged to pay for the purchase of any glebe, or the building of any house of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry, contrary to what he believes right and has voluntarily and personally engaged to perform; but all persons shall be at liberty to exercise their own mode of worship: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt preachers of treasonable or seditious discourses from legal trial and punishment. N. C., 425.

—That all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences; that no man shall be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any ministry against his consent; that no human authority ought, in any case whatever, to control or interfere with the rights of conscience; and that no preference shall ever be given by law to any religious societies or modes of worship. Ky., 223.

—Perfect freedom of religious sentiment, be and the same is hereby secured, and no inhabitant of this State, shall ever be molested in person or property, nor prohibited from holding any public office or trust on account of his religious opinion. Ga., 142.

—That no person shall be molested for his opinions on any subject whatever, nor suffer any civil or political incapacity, or acquire any civil or political advantages, in consequence of such opinions, except in cases provided for in this Constitution. Miss., 334.

—All men shall be secured in the natural right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences. Ind., 170; Me., 239; Or., 447.

—And no one shall be hurt, molested or restrained in his person, liberty or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience, nor for his religious professions or sentiments, provided he does not disturb the public peace, nor obstruct others in their religious worship;—and all persons demeaning themselves peaceably, as good members of the State, shall be equally under the protection of the laws, and no subordination nor preference, of any one sect or denomination to another, shall ever be established by law, nor shall any religious test be required as a qualification for any office or trust under this State; and all religious societies in this State, whether incorporate or unincorporate, shall at all times have the exclusive right of electing their public teachers, and contracting with them for their support and maintenance. Me., 239.

—No law shall, in any case whatever, control the free exercise and enjoyment of religious opinions, or interfere with the rights of conscience. Ind., 170; Or., 447.

—Nor can any man, who is conscientiously scrupulous of bearing arms, be justly compelled thereto, if he will pay such equivalent. N. H., 399; (nearly similar), Ala., 74; Tex., 514; Ill., 163; Ind., 180; Vt., 522.

—The Legislature shall pass laws, exempting citizens belonging to any sect or denomination of religion the tenets of which are known to be opposed to the bearing of arms, from attending private and general musters. Tenn., 498.

—That no person who acknowledges the being of God and a future state of rewards and punishments, shall, on account of his religious sentiments, be disqualified to hold any office or place of trust or profit under this Commonwealth. Pa., 467.

—No person who shall deny the being of God, or the truth of the Christian religion, or the divine authority of the old or new Testament, or who shall hold religious principles incompatible with the freedom or safety of the State, shall be capable of holding any office or place of trust or profit in the civil department within this State. N. C., 430.

—No person who denies the being of a God shall hold any office in the civil department of this State, nor be allowed his oath in any court. Ark., 93; [Tenn., 498].

—No person who denies the being of a God, or a future state of rewards and punishments, shall hold any office in the civil department of this State. Miss., 342.

—No contract of marriage, if otherwise duly made, shall be invalidated for want of conformity to the requirements of any religious sect. Cal., 104.

—It being the duty of all men to worship the Supreme Being, the Great Creator and Preserver of the universe, and their right to render that worship in the mode most consistent with the dictates of their conscience, no person shall by law be compelled to join or support, or be classed with or associated to any congregation, church, or religious association. But every person now belonging to such congregation, church, or religious association, shall remain a member thereof until he shall have separated himself therefrom in the manner hereinafter provided. And each and every society or denomination of Christians in this State shall have and enjoy the same and equal powers, rights and privileges, and shall have power and authority to support and maintain the ministers or teachers of their respective denominations, and to build and repair houses for public worship by a tax on the members of any such society only, to be laid by a major vote of the legal voters assembled at any society meeting, warned and held according to law, or in any other manner. Cal., 112.

—If any person shall choose to separate himself from the society or denomination of Christians to which he may belong, and shall leave a written notice thereof with the clerk of such society, he shall thereupon be no longer liable for any future expenses which may be incurred by said society. Cal., 112.

—That all men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience, [N. C., 722,] and that no preference shall ever be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship in this State. Fl., 124.

—The Legislature shall pass no law to prevent any person from worshipping Almighty God according to the dictates of his own conscience, or to compel any person to attend, erect or support any place of religious worship, or to pay tithes, taxes or other rates for the support of any minister of the Gospel or teacher of religion. Mich., 307.

—Although it is the duty of all men frequently to assemble together for the public worship of the Author of the Universe, and piety and morality, on which the prosperity of communities depends, are thereby promoted; yet no man shall, or ought to be compelled to attend any religious worship, to contribute to the erection or support of any place of worship, or to the maintenance of any ministry, against his own free will and consent, and no power shall or ought to be vested in or assumed by any magistrate, that shall in any case interfere with, or in any manner control the rights of conscience, in the free exercise of religious worship: nor shall a preference be given by law to any religious societies, denomination or modes of worship. Del., 116.

—The General Assembly shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; nor shall any person be compelled to attend any place of worship, pay tithes, taxes, or other rates for building or repairing places of worship, or the maintenance of any minister or ministry. Iowa, 183.

—No religious test shall be required as a qualification to any office, or public trust, under this State. Del., 116; Ill., 165; Ind., 170; Iowa, 183; Or., 447; Ohio, 432; N. J., 912; Neb., 371; Tex., 505; Tenn., 490; Wis., 560.

—The manner of administering an oath or affirmation shall be such as is most consistent with the conscience of the deponent, and shall be esteemed by the General Assembly the most solemn appeal to God. Ky., 220.

—No person, while he continues to exercise the functions of a clergyman, priest, or teacher of any religious persuasion, society or sect, nor while he holds or exercises any office of profit under this Commonwealth, or under the government of the United States, shall be eligible to the General Assembly, except attorneys-at-law, justices of the peace, and militia officers: Provided, That attorneys for the Commonwealth, who receive a fixed annual salary, shall be ineligible. Ky., 212.

—That, as it is the duty of every man to worship God in such manner as he thinks most acceptable to him, all persons are equally entitled to protection in their religious liberty; wherefore, no person ought, by any law, to be molested in his person or estate, on account of his religious persuasion or profession, or for his religious practice, unless under the color of religion any man shall disturb the good order, peace, or safety of the State, or shall infringe the laws of morality, or injure others in their natural, civil or religious rights; nor ought any person to be compelled to frequent or maintain, or contribute, unless on contract to maintain, any place of worship or any ministry; nor shall any person be deemed incompetent as a witness or juror who believes in the existence of a God, and that under his dispensation such person will be held morally accountable for his acts, and be rewarded or punished therefor, either in this world or the world to come. Md., 255.

—It is the right as well as the duty of all men in society, publicly, and at stated seasons, to worship the Supreme Being, the great Creator and Preserver of the universe. And no subject shall be hurt, molested or restrained, in his person, liberty, or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; or for his religious profession or sentiments; provided he doth not disturb the public peace, or obstruct others in their religious worship. Mass., 280.

—As the happiness of a people, and the good order and preservation of civil Government, essentially depend upon piety, religion and morality; and as these cannot be generally diffused through a community, but by the institution of the public worship of God, and of public instructions in piety, religion and morality; Therefore, To promote their happiness, and to secure the good order and preservation of their Government, the people of this Commonwealth have a right to invest their Legislature with power to authorize and require, and the Legislature shall, from time to time, authorize and require the several towns, parishes, precincts, and other bodies politic, or religious societies, to make suitable provision, at their own expense, for the institution of the public worship of God, and for the support and maintenance of public protestant teachers of piety, religion and morality, in all cases where such provision shall not be made voluntarily. Mass., 280.

—The right of every man to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of his own conscience, shall never be infringed, nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship, or to maintain any ministry, against his consent. Nor shall any control of, or interference with the rights of conscience be permitted, or any preference be given by law to any religious establishments, or modes of worship. Nor shall any money be drawn from the treasury for the benefit of religious societies or religious or theological seminaries. Wis., 560; (nearly similar), Min., 320.

—And the people of this Commonwealth have also a right to, and do, invest their Legislature with authority to enjoin upon all the subjects an attendance upon the instructions of the public teachers aforesaid, at stated times and seasons, if there be any on whose instructions they can conscientiously and conveniently attend. Mass., 280.

Provided, notwithstanding, That the several towns, parishes, precincts, and other bodies politic, or religious societies, shall at all times have the exclusive right of electing their public teachers, and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance. Mass., 280.

—And all moneys, paid by the subject, to the support of public worship, and of the public teachers aforesaid shall, if he require it, be uniformly applied to the support of the public teacher or teachers of his own religious sect or denomination, provided there be any on whose instructions he attends; otherwise it may be paid toward the support of the teacher or teachers of the parish or precinct in which the said moneys are raised. Mass., 280.

—And every denomination of Christians, demeaning themselves peaceably, and as good subjects of the Commonwealth, shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law. Mass., 280.

—That no religious corporation can be established in this State; except that by a general law, uniform throughout the State, any church, or religious society, or congregation, may become a body corporate, for the sole purpose of acquiring, holding, using, and disposing of so much land as may be required for a house of public worship, a chapel, a parsonage, and a burial ground, and managing the same, and contracting in relation to such land, and the buildings thereon, through a board of trustees, selected by themselves; but the quantity of land to be held by any such body corporate, in connection with a house of worship or a parsonage, shall not exceed five acres in the country, or one acre in a town or city. Mo., 347.

—As morality and piety, rightly grounded on evangelical principles, will give the best and greatest security to government, and will lay in the hearts of men the strongest obligations to due subjection; and as a knowledge of these is most likely to be propagated through a society by the institution of the public worship of the Deity, and of public instruction in morality and religion; therefore, to promote those important purposes, the people of this State have a right to empower, and do hereby fully empower the Legislature to authorize, from time to time, the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies within this State, to make adequate provisions, at their own expense, for the support and maintenance of public Protestant teachers of piety, religion, and morality. N. H., 399.

—The rights, privileges, immunities and estates of both civil and religious societies and of corporate bodies, shall remain as if the Constitution of this State had not been altered or amended. S. C., 488.

—No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification for any office of public trust under the State. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification of any voter at any election in this State; nor shall any person be rendered incompetent to give evidence in any court of law or equity in consequence of his opinion upon the subject of religion. Minn., 320.

—That all men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences and understandings, as in their opinion shall be regulated by the word of God; and that no man ought to, or of right can be compelled to attend any religious worship, or erect or support any place of worship, or maintain any ministry, contrary to the dictates of his conscience; nor can any man be justly deprived or abridged of any civil right as a citizen on account of his religious sentiments or peculiar mode of religious worship; and that no authority can, or ought to be vested in or assumed by any power whatever, that shall in any case interfere with or in any manner control the rights of conscience in the free exercise of religious worship; nevertheless, every sect or denomination of Christians ought to observe the Sabbath or Lord's day, and keep up some sort of religious worship which to them shall seem most agreeable to the revealed will of God. Vt. 521.

—But the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, nor to justify practices inconsistent with the good order, peace, or safety of the State, or with the rights of others. Mo. 346; S. C., 488.

—Every individual has a natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and reason; and no subject shall be hurt, molested or restrained in his person, liberty or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience, or of his religious profession, sentiments, or persuasion:

1 § 4. The privileges of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless

Provided, He doth not disturb the public peace, or disturb others in their religious worship. N. H., 398. Provided notwithstanding, That the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies, shall at all times have the exclusive right of electing their own public teachers, and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance. And no person, or any one particular religious sect or denomination shall ever be compelled to pay toward the support of the teacher or teachers of another persuasion, sect or denomination. N. H., 399.

—And every denomination of Christians demeaning themselves quietly, and as good subjects of the State, shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law.

—And nothing herein shall be understood to affect any former contracts made for the support of the ministry; but all such contracts shall remain and be in the same state as if this Constitution had not been made. N. H., 399.

—No person shall be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping Almighty God in a manner agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; nor under any pretense whatever be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his faith and judgment; nor shall any person be obliged to pay tithes, taxes, or other rates for building or repairing any church or churches, place or places of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry, contrary to what he believes to be right, or has deliberately and voluntarily engaged to perform. N. J., 412.

—Whereas, Almighty God hath created the mind free, and all attempts to influence it by temporal punishment; or burdens, or by civil incapacitations, tend to beget habits of hypocrisy and meanness; and, whereas, a principal object of our venerated ancestors in their migration to this country and their settlement of this State, was, as they expressed it, to hold forth a lively experiment that a flourishing civil State may stand and be best maintained with full liberty in religious concerns; we, therefore declare that no man shall be compelled to frequent or to support any religious worship, place or ministry whatever, except in fulfillment of his own voluntary contract; nor enforced, restrained, molested or burdened in his body or goods; nor disqualified from holding any office; nor otherwise suffer on account of his religious belief; and that every man shall be free to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and to profess, and by argument to maintain, his opinion in matters of religion; and that the same shall in no wise diminish, enlarge, or affect his civil capacity. R. I., 473.

—In order effectually to secure the religious and political freedom established by our venerated ancestors, and to preserve the same for our posterity, we do declare that the essential and unquestionable rights and principles hereinafter mentioned shall be established, maintained, and preserved, and shall be of paramount obligation in all legislative, judicial, and executive proceedings. *R. —The General Assembly shall not grant a charter of incorporation to any church or religious denomination, but may secure the title to church property to an extent to be limited by law. Va., 518.

—No person shall be rendered incompetent as a witness or juror in consequence of his opinions on matters of religion, nor be questioned in any court of justice touching his religious belief to affect the weight of his testimony. Or., 447.

—In the census aforesaid, a special enumeration shall be made of the legal voters; and in each city said enumeration shall specify the number of such legal voters aforesaid, residing in each ward of such city. The enumeration aforesaid shall determine the apportionment of Representatives for the periods between the taking of the census. 298.

[Mode of representation by towns specified in detail.] Mass., 296, 297, 298, 299; N. H., 402, 403; R. I., 476; Vt., 523, 528.

—The several senatorial districts now existing shall be permanent. The Senate shall consist of forty members, and in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty, and every tenth year thereafter, the Governor and Council shall assign the number of Senators to be chosen in each district, according to the number of inhabitants in the same. But, in all cases, at least one Senator shall be assigned to each district. Mass., 297.

—At their first session after each enumeration so made, and also at their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the Legislature shall have the power to prescribe the bounds of congressional, senatorial and representative districts, and to apportion anew the Senators and Representatives among the several districts, according to the provisions of section second of this article. Min., 322.

—The Senators shall also be chosen by single districts of convenient contiguous territory, at the same time that the members of the House of Representatives are required to be chosen, and in the same manner, and no representative district shall be divided in the formation of a senate district. The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series, and the Senators chosen by the districts designated by odd numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the first year, and the Senators chosen by the districts designated by even numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the second year; and thereafter the Senators shall be chosen for the term of two years, except there shall be an entire new election of all the Senators at the election next succeeding each new apportionment provided for in this article. Min., 322.

—The number of members who compose the Senate and House of Representatives shall be prescribed by law, but the representation in the Senate shall never exceed one member for every five thousand inhabitants, and in the House of Representatives one member for every two thousand inhabitants. The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the State, in proportion to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law. Min., 321.

—When a senatorial district shall be composed of two or more counties, it shall not be entirely separated by any county belonging to another district; and no county shall be divided in forming a district. Miss., 337.

—Until the first enumeration shall be made, as directed by this Constitution, the apportionment of Senators and Representatives among the several districts and counties in this State shall remain as at present fixed by law. Miss., 344.

—Elections for representatives for the several counties shall be held at the places of holding their respective courts, or in the several election districts into which the county may be divided; Provided, That when it shall appear to the Legislature that any city or town hath a number of free white inhabitants equal to the ratio then fixed, such city or town shall have a separate representation, according to the number of free white inhabitants therein, which shall be retained so long as such city or town shall contain a number of free white inhabitants equal to the existing ratio, and thereafter and during the existence of the right of separate representation in such city or town, elections for the county in which such city or town entitled to a separate representation is situated, shall not be held in such city or town; And provided, That if the residuum or fraction of any city or town entitled to separate representation shall, when added to the residuum in the county in which it may lie, be equal to the ratio fixed by law for one representative, then the aforesaid county, city or town, having the largest residuum, shall be entitled to such representation; And provided also, That when there are two or more counties adjoining, which have residuums over and above the ratio then fixed by law, if said residuums, when added together, will amount to such ratio, in that case one Representative shall be added to that county having the largest residuum. Miss., 336.

—The Legislature shall at their first session, and at periods of not less than every four, nor more than every six years, until the year 1845, and thereafter at periods of not less than every four, nor more than every eight years, cause an enumeration to be made of all the free white inhabitants of this State, and the whole number of Representatives shall, at the several periods of making such enumeration, be fixed by the Legislature, and apportioned among the several counties, cities or towns entitled to separate representation, according to the number of free white inhabitants in each, and shall not be less than thirty-six nor more than one hundred; Provided, however, That each county shall always be entitled to at least one Representative. Miss., 337.

—When any county shall be entitled to more than one Senator, the County Court shall cause such county to be subdivided into as many compact and convenient districts as such county may be entitled to Senators; which districts shall be, as near as may be, of equal population; and the qualified voters of each of such districts shall elect one Senator, who shall be a resident of such district. Mo., 352.

—Senators shall be apportioned among their respective districts, as nearly as may be, according to the number of permanent inhabitants in each. Mo., 352.

—Senators and Representatives shall be chosen according to the rule of apportionment established in this Constitution, until the next decennial census taken by the United States shall have been made, and the result thereof as to this State ascertained, when the apportionment shall be revised and adjusted on the basis of that census. In the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and every tenth year thereafter, there shall be taken, under the authority of this State, a census of the inhabitants thereof, and after every such census the apportionment of Senators and Representatives may be based thereon until the next succeeding national census, after which it may be based upon the national census until the next succeeding decennial State census; and so on from time to time; the enumerations made by the United States and this State shall be used, as they respectively occur, as the basis of apportionment. Mo., 353.

—Senatorial and representative districts may be altered, from time to time, as public convenience may require. When any senatorial district shall be composed of two or more counties, they shall be contiguous. Mo., 353.

—The House of Representatives shall consist of members to be chosen every second year, by the qualified voters of the several counties, and apportioned in the following manner. Mo., 352.

—The ratio of representation shall be ascertained at each apportioning session of the General Assembly, by dividing the whole number of permanent inhabitants of the State by the number two hundred. Each county having one ratio, or less, shall be entitled to one Representative; each county having three times said ratio shall be entitled to two Representatives; each county having six times said ratio shall be entitled to three Representatives; and so on above that number, giving one additional member for every three additional ratios. When any county shall be entitled to more than one Representative, the County Court shall cause such county to be subdivided into as many compact and convenient districts as such county may be entitled to Representatives; which districts shall be, as near as may be, of equal population; and the qualified voters of each of such districts shall elect one representative, who shall be a resident of such district.

—No person shall be a member of the House of Representatives who shall not have attained the age of twenty-four years; who shall not be a white male citizen of the United States; who shall not have been a qualified voter of this State two years, and an inhabitant of the county which he may be chosen to represent one year next before the day of his election, if such county shall have been so long established; but if not, then of the county from which the same shall have been taken; and who shall not have paid a State and county tax. Mo., 352.

—The Senators and Representatives shall be chosen by districts of convenient contiguous territory, as compact as may be, to be defined by law, except as to the first election which is hereinafter provided for. Neb., 171.

—The Legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of the State in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and at the end of every ten years thereafter; and at their first session after such enumeration, and also after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the Legislature shall apportion and district anew the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the number of inhabitants, excluding Indians not taxed, and soldiers and officers of the United States army and navy. Neb., 371.

—The enumeration of the inhabitants of this State shall be taken under the direction of the Legislature, if deemed necessary, in A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty-seven; A. D., eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and every ten years thereafter; and these enumerations, together with the census that may be taken under the direction of the Congress of the United States, in A. D., eighteen hundred and seventy, and every subsequent ten years, shall serve as the basis of representation in both Houses of the Legislature. Nev., 392.

—The General Assembly shall be composed of members annually elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be, according to the number of their inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of the General Assembly shall be made by the Legislature at its first session after the next and every subsequent enumeration or census, and when made shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken; Provided, That each county shall at all times be entitled to one member; and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty. N. J., 413.

—For the first ten years, after the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, the apportionment of Representatives shall be, as provided in the schedule, and no change shall ever be made in the principles of representation, as herein established, or in the senatorial districts, except as above provided. All territory, belonging to a county at the time of any apportionment, shall, as to the right of representation and suffrage, remain an integral part thereof, during the decennial period. Ohio, 441.

—The Governor, Auditor, and Secretary of State, or any two of them, shall, at least six months prior to the October election, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and at each decennial period thereafter, ascertain and determine the ratio of representation, according to the decennial census, the number of Representatives and Senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years, within the next ensuing ten years, and the Governor shall cause the same to be published, in such manner as shall be directed by law. Ohio, 442.

—Where two or more counties are joined in a senatorial, representative, or judicial district, the returns of elections shall be sent to the county having the largest population. Ohio, 445.

—The Senators and Representatives shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties or districts into which the State may, from time to time, be divided by law. Or., 450.

—And in case any county shall not have the requisite population to entitle such county to a member, then such county shall be attached to some adjoining county for senatorial or representative purposes. Or., 450.

—A senatorial district, when more than one county shall constitute the same, shall be composed of contiguous counties; and no county shall be divided in creating senatorial districts. Or., 450.

—In the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and in every seventh year thereafter, Representatives to the number of one hundred shall be apportioned and distributed equally throughout the State by districts, in proportion to the number of taxable inhabitants in the several parts thereof, except that any county containing at least three thousand five hundred taxables, may be allowed a separate representation, but no more than three counties shall be joined, and no county shall be divided in the formation of a district. Any city containing a sufficient number of taxables to entitle it to at least two Representatives, shall have a separate representation assigned it, and shall be divided into convenient districts of contiguous territory, of equal taxable population as near as may be, each of which districts shall elect one Representative. Pa., 471.

[Senators apportioned according to taxable inhabitants.] Pa., 461, 471.

—The House of Representatives shall consist of one hundred and twenty-four members, to be apportioned among the several election districts of the State, according to the number of white inhabitants contained in each, and the amount of all taxes raised by the General Assembly, whether direct or indirect, or of whatever species, paid in each, deducting therefrom all taxes paid on account of property held in any other district, and adding thereto all taxes elsewhere paid on account of property held in such district. An enumeration of the white inhabitants for this purpose was made in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, and shall be made in the course of every tenth year thereafter, in such manner as shall be by law directed; and Representatives shall be assigned to the different districts in the above-mentioned proportion, by act of the General Assembly at the session immediately succeeding every enumeration; Provided, That until the apportionment, which shall be made upon the next enumeration, shall take effect, the representation of the several election districts, as herein constituted, shall continue as assigned at the last apportionment, each district which has been heretofore divided into smaller districts, known as parishes, having the aggregate number of Representatives which the parishes heretofore embraced within its limits have had since that apportionment, the Representative to which the parish of All Saints has been heretofore entitled, being, during this interval, assigned to Horry election district. S. C., 482.

—In assigning Representatives to the several districts, the General assembly shall allow one Representative for every sixty-second part of the whole number of white inhabitants in the State, and one Representative, also, for every sixty-second part of the whole taxes raised by the General Assembly. There shall be further allowed one Representative for such fractions of the sixty-second part of the white inhabitants, and of the sixty-second part of the taxes as, when added together, form a unit. S. C., 483.

—If, in the apportionment of Representatives, any election district shall appear not to be entitled, from its population and its taxes, to a Representative, such election district shall nevertheless send one Representative; and if there be still a deficiency of the number of Representatives required by section fifth, such deficiency shall be supplied by assigning Representatives to those election districts having the largest surplus fractions, whether those fractions consist of a combination of population and taxes, or of population or taxes separately, until the number of one hundred and twenty-four members are made up; Provided, however, That not more than twelve Representatives shall, in any apportionment, be assigned to any one election district. S. C., 483.

—No apportionment of Representatives shall be construed to take effect, in any manner, until the general election which shall succeed such apportionment. S. C., 483.

—The number of Representatives shall, at the several periods of making the enumeration, be apportioned among the several counties or districts according to the number of qualified voters in each; and shall not exceed seventy-five until the population of the State shall be one million and a half; and shall never thereafter exceed ninety-nine; Provided, That any county having two-thirds of the ratio, shall be entitled to one member. Tenn., 492.

—The number of Senators shall, at the several periods of making the enumeration, be proportioned among the several counties or districts, according to the number of qualified electors in each, and shall not exceed one-third the number of Representatives. In apportioning the Senators among the different counties, the fraction that may be lost by any county or counties, in the apportionment of members to the House of Representatives, shall be made up to such county or counties in the Senate as near as may be practicable. When a district is composed of two or more counties, they shall be adjoining; and no county shall be divided in forming a district. Tenn., 492.

—When a senatorial district shall be composed of two or more counties it shall not be separated by any county belonging to another district. Tex., 507.

—The Senators shall be apportioned to the several counties, according to the population as ascertained by the census taken under the authority of Congress in the year 1840, regard being always had, in such apportionment, to the counties having the largest fraction, and giving to each county at least one Senator. Vt., 530.

—The Legislature shall make a new apportionment of the Senators to the several counties, after the taking of each census of the United States, or after a census taken for the purpose of such apportionment, under the authority of this State, always regarding the above provisions of this article. Vt., 530.

—Each county, city and town of the respective districts at the time of the first election of its Delegates under this Constitution, shall vote for one Senator, and the Sheriffs or other officers holding the election for each county, city or town within ten days at the farthest after the last election in the district, and from the polls so taken in their respective counties, cities and towns, return as Senator the person who has received the greatest number of votes in the whole district. Va., 535.

—The whole number of members to which the State may at any time be entitled in the House of Representatives of the United States, shall be apportioned as nearly as may be, amongst the several counties, cities and towns of the State according to their population. Va., 537.

—In the apportionment, the State shall be divided into districts corresponding in number with the Representatives to which it may be entitled in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, which shall be formed respectively of contiguous counties, cities and towns, be compact, and include, as nearly as may be, an equal number of population. Va., 537.

—For the election of Senators, the State shall be divided into nine senatorial districts; which number shall not be diminished, but may be increased as hereinafter provided. Every district shall choose two Senators, but after the first election both shall not be chosen from the same county. The districts shall be equal, as nearly as practicable, in white population, according to the returns of the United States census. They shall be compact, formed of contiguous territory, and bounded by county lines. After every such census the Legislature shall alter the senatorial districts, so far as may be necessary to make them conform to the foregoing provisions. W. Va., 549.

—Any senatorial district may at any time be divided, by county lines or otherwise, into two sections, which shall be equal, as nearly as practicable, in white population. If such division be made, each section shall elect one of the Senators for the district; and the Senators so elected shall be classified in such manner as the Senate may determine. W. Va., 549.

—For the election of Delegates, every county containing a white population of less than half the ratio of representation for the House of Delegates, shall, at each apportionment, be attached to some contiguous county or counties, to form a delegate district. W. Va., 549.

—When two or more counties are formed into a delegate district, the Legislature shall provide by law that the Delegates to be chosen by the voters of the district shall be in rotation, residents of each county, for a greater or less number of terms, proportioned, as nearly as can be conveniently done to the white population of the several counties in the district. W. Va., 549.

—After every census the Delegates shall be apportioned as follows:

The ratio of representation for the House of Delegates shall be ascertained by dividing the whole white population of the State by the number of which the House is to consist, and rejecting the fraction of a unit, if any, resulting from such division.

Dividing the white population of every delegate district, and of every county not included in a delegate district, by the ratio thus ascertained, there shall be assigned to each a number of Delegates equal to the quotient obtained by this division, excluding the fractional remainder.

The additional Delegates necessary to make up the number of which the House is to consist, shall then be assigned to those delegate districts, and counties not included in a delegate district, which would otherwise have the largest fractions unrepresented. But every delegate district and county not included in a delegate district, shall be entitled to at least one Delegate. W. Va., 549.

—The arrangement of senatorial and delegate districts, and appointment of Delegates, shall hereafter be declared by law, as soon as possible after each succeeding census taken by authority of the United States. When so declared, they shall apply to the first general election for members of the Legislature to be thereafter held, and shall continue in force, unchanged until such districts are altered and Delegates apportioned under the succeeding census. W. Va., 550.

—For the election of Representatives to Congress, the State shall be divided into districts, corresponding in number with the Representatives to which it may be entitled; which district shall be formed of contiguous counties and be compact. Each district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal federal number, to be determined according to the rule prescribed in the second section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States. W. Va., 558.

—Additional territory may be admitted into and become part of this State with the consent of the Legislature. And in such case provision shall be made by law for the representation of the white population thereof in the Senate and House of Delegates, in conformity with the principles set forth in this Constitution. And the number of members of which each branch of the Legislature is to consist, shall thereafter be increased by the representation assigned to such additional territory. W. Va., 550.

—The Legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of the State, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, and at the end of every ten years thereafter; and at their first session after such enumeration, and also after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the Legislature shall apportion and district anew the members of the Senate and Assembly, according to the number of inhabitants, excluding Indians not taxed, and soldiers and officers of the United States army and navy. Wis., 562.

—The members of the Assembly shall be chosen annually by single districts on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts, such districts to be bounded by county, precinct, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory, and be in as compact form as practicable. Wis., 562.

—The Senators shall be chosen by single districts of convenient contiguous territory, at the same time and in the same manner as members of the Assembly are required to be chosen, and no assembly district shall be divided in the formation of a senate district. The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series, and the Senators chosen by the odd numbered districts shall go out of office at the expiration of the first year, and the Senators chosen by the even numbered districts shall go out of office at the expiration of the second year, and thereafter the Senators shall be chosen for the term of two years. Wis., 562.

—Until there shall be a new apportionment, the Senators and members of the Assembly shall be apportioned among the several districts, as hereinafter mentioned, and each district shall be entitled to elect one Senator or member of the Assembly, as the case may be. Wis., 573.

—The foregoing districts are subject, however, so far to be altered that when any new town shall be organized, it may be added to either of the adjoining assembly districts. Wis., 575.

—The population of the townships in the several counties of the State, and of the several wards, shall be ascertained by the last preceding census of the United States, until the Legislature shall provide, by law, some other mode of ascertaining it. N. J., 418.

—This apportionment shall be made by the General Assembly, at the respective times and periods when the districts for the Senate are hereinbefore directed to be laid off, and the said apportionment shall be made according to an enumeration to be ordered by the General Assembly, or according to the census which may be taken by order of Congress, next preceding the making such apportionment. N. C., 427.

—In making the apportionment in the House of Commons, the ratio of representation shall be ascertained by dividing the amount of federal population in the State, after deducting that comprehended within those counties which do not severally contain the one hundred and twentieth part of the entire federal population aforesaid by the number of Representatives less than the number assigned to the said counties. To each county containing the said ratio, and not twice the said ratio, there shall be assigned one Representative; to each county containing twice, but not three times the said ratio, there shall be assigned two Representatives, and so on progressively; and then the remaining Representatives shall be assigned severally to the counties having the largest fractions. N. C., 427.

—The apportionment of this State for members of the General Assembly, shall be made every ten years after the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, in the following manner: The whole population of the State, as ascertained by the federal census, or in such other mode as the General Assembly may direct, shall be divided by the number "one hundred," and the quotient shall be the ratio of representation in the House of Representatives for ten years next succeeding each apportionment. Ohio 440.

—Every county, having a population equal to one-half of said ratio, shall be entitled to one Representative; every county containing said ratio and three-fourths over, shall be entitled to two Representatives; every county containing three times said ratio, shall be entitled to three Representatives; and so on, requiring, after the first two, an entire ratio for each additional Representative. Ohio, 441.

—When any county shall have a fraction above the ratio, so large, that being multiplied by five, the result will be equal to one or more ratios, additional Representatives shall be apportioned for such ratios, among the several sessions of the decennial period, in the following manner: If there be only one ratio, a Representative shall be allotted to the fifth session of the decennial period; if there are two ratios, a Representative shall be allotted to the fourth and third sessions, respectively; if three, to the third, second, and first sessions respectively; if four, to the fourth, third, second and first sessions respectively. Ohio, 441.

§ 6. The Members of the Legislature shall receive for their services a sum not exceeding three dollars a day, from the commencement of the session; but such pay shall not exceed in the aggregate three hundred dollars for per diem allowance, except in proceedings for impeachment. The limitation as to the aggregate compensation shall not take effect until the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight. When convened in extra session by the Governor, they shall receive three dollars per day. They shall also receive the sum of one dollar for every ten miles they shall travel, in going to and returning from their place of meeting, on the most usual route. The speaker of the Assembly shall, in virtue of his office, receive an additional compensation equal to one-third of his per diem allowance as a member.

—Any county, forming with another county or counties a representative district, during one decennial period, if it have acquired sufficient population at the next decennial period, shall be entitled to a separate representation, if there shall be left, in the district from which it shall have been separated, a population sufficient for a Representative; but no such change shall be made, except at the regular decennial period for the apportionment of Representatives. Ohio, 441.

—If, in fixing any subsequent ratio, a county, previously entitled to separate representation, shall have less than the number required by the new ratio for a Representative, such county shall be attached to the county adjoining it, having the least number of inhabitants; and the representation of the district, so formed, shall be determined as herein provided. Ohio, 441.

—The ratio for a Senator shall, forever hereafter, be ascertained, by dividing the whole population of the State, by the number thirty-five. Ohio, 441.

—The same rules shall be applied, in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts, and in annexing districts, which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, as are applied to representative districts. Ohio, 441.

—Any county forming part of a senatorial district, having acquired a population equal to a full senatorial ratio, shall be made a separate senatorial district, at any regular decennial apportionment, if a full senatorial ratio shall be left in the district from which it shall be taken. Ohio, 441.

VETO POWER.

[The New York Constitution of 1846, followed the language used in 1821. It is nearly like that of United States, but differs in using the word "present," in speaking of the return of bills with objections. The veto power under the Constitution of 1777, was entrusted to the Council of Revision, and was as follows:]

—And whereas, laws, inconsistent with the spirit of this constitution, or with the public good, may be hastily and unadvisedly passed: Be it ordained, that the Governor, for the time being, the Chancellor, and the Judges of the Supreme Court—or any two of them, together with the Governor—shall be, and hereby are, constituted a Council, to revise all bills about to be passed into laws by the Legislature; and for that purpose shall assemble themselves from time to time, when the Legislature shall be convened: for which, nevertheless, they shall not receive any salary or consideration, under any pretense whatever. And that all bills, which have passed the Senate and Assembly, shall, before they become laws, be presented to the said Council, for their revision and consideration: and if, upon such revision, and consideration, it should appear improper to the said Council, or a majority of them, that the said bill should become a law of this State, that they return the same, together with their objections thereto in writing, to the Senate or House of Assembly (in whichever the same shall have originated) who shall enter the objections, sent down by the Council, at large in their minutes, and proceed to reconsider the said bill. But if, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the said Senate or House of Assembly, shall, notwithstanding the said objections, agree to pass the same, it shall, together with the objections, be sent to the other branch of the Legislature, where it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present, shall be a law.

—And in order to prevent any unnecessary delays, be it further ordained, that if any bill shall not be returned by the Council within ten days after it shall have been presented, the same shall be a law, unless the Legislature shall, by their adjournment, render a return of the said bill, within ten days, impracticable; in which case the bill shall be returned on the first day of the meeting of the Legislature, after the expiration of the said ten days. N. Y. (1777), 26.

—Every bill, which shall have passed both Houses of the General Assembly, shall be presented to the Governor; if he approve, he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it originated, who shall enter the objections at large upon the journals, and proceed to reconsider it; if, after such reconsideration, a majority of the whole number elected to that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, with the objections, to the other House, by whom it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by a majority of the whole number elected to that House, it shall become a law; but, in such cases, the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journals of each House, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within five days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it; unless the General Assembly, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law. Ala., 79; *N. —Every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of both Houses may be necessary (except on questions of adjournment, and for bringing on elections by the two Houses), shall be presented to the Governor, and, before it shall take effect, be approved by him, or, being disapproved, shall be re-passed by both Houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill. Ala., 79; (nearly similar), Ark., 89; Fl., 131; Ga., 147; Ky., 214; La., 230; Minn., 322; Miss., 341; Mo., 355; Pa., 462; Tex., 514.

—Every resolve shall be presented to the Governor, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him; or, being disapproved by him, shall be re-passed by the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill. N. H., 405.

—Eight Councillors shall be annually chosen by the inhabitants of this Commonwealth, qualified to vote for Governor. The election of Councillors shall be determined by the same rule that is required in the election of Governor. The Legislature, at its first session after this amendment shall have been adopted, and at its first session after the next State census shall have been taken, and at its first session after each decennial State census thereafter, shall divide the Commonwealth into eight districts of contiguous territory, each containing a number of inhabitants as nearly equal as practicable, without dividing any town or ward of a city, and each entitled to elect one Councillor; Provided, however, That if, at any time, the Constitution shall provide for the division of the Commonwealth into forty senatorial districts, then the Legislature shall so arrange the councillor districts that each district shall consist of five contiguous senatorial districts, as they shall be, from time to time, established by the Legislature. No person shall be eligible to the office of Councillor who has not been an inhabitant of the Commonwealth for the term of five years immediately preceding his election. The day and manner of election, the return of the votes and the declaration of the said elections, shall be the same as are required in the election of Governor. Whenever there shall be a failure to elect the full number of Councillors, the vacancies shall be filled in the same manner as is required for filling vacancies in the Senate; and vacancies occasioned by death, removal from the State, or otherwise, shall be filled in like manner, as soon as may be after such vacancies shall have happened. Mass., 297.

—The Governor, and in his absence the Lieutenant-Governor, shall be President of the Council, but shall have no voice in Council, and the Lieutenant-Governor shall always be a member of the Council, except when the chair of the Governor shall be vacant. Mass., 289.

—The Councillors in the civil arrangements of the Commonwealth, shall have rank next after the Lieutenant-Governor. Mass., 289.

—The Governor shall have authority, from time to time, at his discretion, to assemble and call together the Councillors of this Commonwealth for the time being, and the Governor, with the said Councillors, or five of them, at least, shall and may, from time to time, hold and keep a Council for the ordering and directing the affairs of the Commonwealth, agreeably to the Constitution and the laws of the land. Mass., 287.

—The resolutions and advice of the Council shall be recorded in a register and signed by the members present; and this record may be called for, at any time, by either House of the Legislature; and any member of the Council may insert his opinion, contrary to the resolution of the majority. Mass., 289.

—In case of a vacancy in the Council, from a failure of election or other cause, the Senate and House of Representatives shall by concurrent vote, choose some eligible person from the people of the district wherein such vacancy occurs, to fill that office. If such vacancy shall happen when the Legislature is not in session, the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Council, may fill the same by the appointment of some eligible person. Mass., 300.

—There shall be annually elected by ballot five Councillors, for advising the Governor in the executive part of government. The freeholders and other inhabitants of each county, qualified to vote for Senators, shall, some time in the month of March, give in their votes for one Councillor; which votes shall be received, sorted, counted, certified and returned to the Secretary's office, in the same manner as the votes for Senators, to be by the Secretary laid before the Senate and House of Representatives on the first Wednesday of June. N. H., 407.

—And the person having a majority of votes in any county shall be considered as duly elected a Councillor, but if no person shall have a majority of votes in any county, the Senate and House of Representatives shall take the names of the two persons who have the highest number of votes in each county, and not elected, and out of those two shall elect by joint ballot the Councillor wanted for such county; and the qualifications for Councillor shall be the same as for Senators. N. H., 407.

—If any person thus chosen a Councillor shall be elected Governor, or member of either branch of the Legislature, and shall accept the trust; or if any person elected a Councillor shall refuse to accept the office; or in case of death, resignation, or removal of any Councillor out of the State, the Governor may issue a precept for the election of a new Councillor in that county where such vacancy shall happen; and the choice shall be in the same manner as before directed; and the Governor shall have full power and authority to convene the Council, from time to time, at his discretion; and with them, or the majority of them, may and shall, from time to time, hold a Council for ordering and directing the affairs of this State, according to the laws of the land. N. H., 407.

—The resolutions and advice of the Council shall be recorded by the Secretary in a register, and signed by all the members present agreeing thereto; and this record may be called for at any time by either House of the Legislature, and any member of the Council may enter his opinion contrary to the resolution of the majority, with the reasons for such opinion. N. H., 407.

—The Legislature may, if the public good shall hereafter require it, divide the State into five districts, as nearly equal as may be, governing themselves by the number of ratable polls and proportion of public taxes; each district to elect a Councillor; and in case of such division, the manner of the choice shall be conformable to the present mode of election in counties. N. H., 407.

—And whereas, The elections appointed to be made by this Constitution on the first Wednesday of June; annually, by the two Houses of the Legislature, may not be completed on that day, the said elections may be adjourned from day to day, until the same be completed. And the order of the elections shall be as follows: The vacancies of the Senate, if any, shall be first filled up: the Governor shall then be elected, provided there should be no choice of him by the people, and afterward the two Houses shall proceed to fill up the vacancy, if any, in the Council. N. H., 407.

—That the Senate and House of Commons, jointly, at their first meeting, after each annual election, shall, by ballot, elect seven persons to be a Council of State for one year; who shall advise the Governor in the execution of his office; and that four members shall be a quorum; their advice and proceedings shall be entered in a journal, to be kept for that purpose only, and signed by the members present; to any part of which any member present may enter his dissent. And such journal shall be laid before the General Assembly when called for by them. N. C., 424.

—That no member of the Council of State shall have a seat either in the Senate or House of Commons. N. C., 425.

—The Supreme Executive Council of this State shall consist of a Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and twelve persons chosen in the following manner, to wit:—the freemen of each town shall, on the day of election for choosing Representatives to attend the General Assembly, bring in their votes for Governor, with his name fairly written, to the Constable, who shall seal them up, and write on them, "Votes for Governor," and deliver them to the Representative chosen to attend the General Assembly. And at the opening of the General Assembly there shall be a committee appointed out of the Council and Assembly, who, after being duly sworn to the faithful discharge of their trust, shall proceed to receive, sort and count the votes for the Governor, and declare the person who has the major part of the votes to be Governor for the year ensuing. And if there be no choice made, then the Council and General Assembly, by their joint ballots, shall make choice of a Governor. The Lieutenant-Governor and Treasurer shall be chosen in the manner above directed. And each freeman shall give in twelve votes for twelve Councillors in the same manner, and the twelve highest in nomination shall serve for the ensuing year as Councillors. Vt., 523.

—[Detailed powers granted to Governor and Council, see Va., 524. Among them are the following:] They are to take care that the laws be faithfully executed; are to expedite the execution of such measures as may be resolved upon by the General Assembly; and they may draw upon the treasury for such sums as may be appropriated by the House of Representatives; they may lay embargoes, or prohibit the exportation of any commodity for any time not exceeding thirty days, in the recess of the House only. They may grant such licenses as shall be necessary, and shall have power to call together the Council, when necessary, before the House shall stand adjourned. The Governor or Lieutenant-Governor and the Council, shall meet at the time and place with the General Assembly; [the Lieutenant-Governor shall, during the presence of the Commander-in-Chief, vote and act as one of the Council; and the Governor, and in his absence the Lieutenant-Governor shall, by virtue of their offices, preside in Council, and have a casting, but no other vote. Every member of the Council shall be a Justice of the Peace for the whole State, by virtue of his office. The Governor and Council shall have a Secretary, and keep fair books of their proceedings, wherein any Councillor may enter his dissent, with his reasons to support it. And the Governor may appoint a Secretary for himself and his Council. Va., 524.

—Every bill which may have passed the Legislature shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor. If he approve it he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it with his objections, to the House in which it originated, which shall enter the same upon the journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, it again pass both Houses by yeas and nays, by a majority of two-thirds of the members of each House present, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the Governor's objections. If any bill shall not be returned within ten days after it shall have been presented to him (Sundays excepted), the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by adjournment, prevent such return. Cal., 98; (nearly similar), Mich., 302; La., 230; Nev., 384; Or., 453; Pa., 462; (nearly similar except in time,) Fl., 131; Iowa, 185; Me., 243; Neb., 374; N. H., 405; Tex., 513; Wis., 564.

—The Governor shall have the revision of all bills passed by both Houses, before the same shall become laws, but two-thirds of each House may pass a law notwithstanding his dissent; and if any bill should not be returned by the Governor within five days (Sundays excepted) after it has been presented to him, the same shall be law, unless the General Assembly by their adjournment, shall prevent its return. He may approve any appropriation, and disapprove any other appropriation in the same bill, and the latter shall not be effectual unless passed by two-thirds of each House. Ga., 147.

—If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the General Assembly shall, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case the said bill shall be returned on the first day of the meeting of the General Assembly, or on the expiration of said ten days, or be a law. Ind., 175.

—If a bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, it shall be a law without his signature, unless the general adjournment shall prevent its return, in which case it shall be a law, unless the Governor, within five days next after such adjournment, shall file such bill, with his objections thereto, in the office of the Secretary of State, who shall lay the same before the General Assembly at its next session, in like manner as if it had been returned by the Governor. But no bill shall be presented to the Governor within two days next previous to the final adjournment of the General Assembly. Ind., 175.

—Any bill submitted to the Governor for his approval during the last three days of a session of the General Assembly, shall be deposited by him in the office of the Secretary of State within thirty days after the adjournment, with his approval if approved by him, and with his objections if he disapproves thereof. Iowa, 185.

—Every bill and joint resolution passed by the House of Representatives and Senate shall, within two days thereafter, be signed by the presiding officers and presented to the Governor; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it to the House of Representatives, which shall enter the objections, at

If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members elected shall agree to pass the bill or resolution, it shall be sent, with the objections, to the Senate, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if approved by two-thirds of all the members elected, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and entered upon the journals of each House. If any bill shall not be returned within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to the Governor, it shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by its adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not become a law. Kan., 199.

[A recent amendment of the Constitution of Kansas allows bills to originate in either House, and modifies the section last quoted.]

—No bill or resolve of the Senate or House of Representatives shall become a law, and have force as such, until it shall have been laid before the Governor for his revisal; and if he, upon such revision, approve thereof, he shall signify his approbation by signing the same. But if he have any objection to the passing of such bill or resolve, he shall return the same together with his objections thereto, in writing, to the Senate or House of Representatives, in whichever the same shall have originated, who shall enter the objections sent down by the Governor, at large, on their records, and proceed to reconsider the said bill or resolve; but if, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the said Senate or House of Representatives shall, notwithstanding the said objections, agree to pass the same, it shall, together with the objections, be sent to the other branch of the Legislature, where it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present, shall have the force of law; but in all such cases, the vote of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays; and the names of the persons voting for or against the said bill or resolve shall be entered upon the public records of the Commonwealth.

And in order to prevent unnecessary delays if any bill or resolve shall not be returned by the Governor within five days after it shall have been presented, the same shall have the force of law. Mass., 283.

—If any bill or resolve shall be objected to, and not approved by the Governor; and if the General Court shall adjourn within five days after the same shall have been laid before the Governor for his approbation, and thereby prevent his returning it with his objections, as provided by the Constitution, such bill or resolve shall not become a law, nor have force as such. Mass., 294.

—Every bill which shall have passed the Senate and House of Representatives, in conformity to the rules of each House, and the joint rules of the two Houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor of the State. If he approve, he shall sign and deposit it in the office of the Secretary of State for preservation, and notify the House where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it with his objections, to the House in which it shall have originated, when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the House shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if it be approved by two-thirds of that House it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within three days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law. The Governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the Secretary of State, within three days after the adjournment of the Legislature any act passed during the three last days of the session, the same shall become a law. Min., 321.

—The Governor shall have a negative upon all laws passed by the Legislature, under such rules and limitations as are in this Constitution prescribed. Min., 223.

—If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall become a law, in like manner as if the Governor had signed it, unless the General Assembly, by its adjournment, shall prevent its return, in which case it shall not become a law, unless the Governor, after such adjournment, and within ten days after the bill was presented to him (Sundays excepted) shall sign and deposit the same in the office of the Secretary of State; in which case it shall become a law, in like manner as if it had been signed by him during the session of the General Assembly. Mo., 355.

—If any bill shall not be returned within five days after it shall have been presented to him (Sunday excepted), exclusive of the day on which he received it, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by its final adjournment, prevent such return, in which case it shall be a law, unless the Governor, within ten days next after the adjournment (Sundays excepted), shall file such bill, with his objections thereto, in the office of the Secretary of State, who shall lay the same before the Legislature at its next session, in like manner as if it had been returned by the Governor; and if the same shall receive the vote of two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the Legislature, upon a vote taken by yeas and nays, to be entered upon the journals of each House, it shall become a law. Nev., 384.

—If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within five days, Sundays excepted, after it shall have been presented to him, it shall be a law without his signature, unless the general adjournment shall prevent its return; in which case it shall be a law, unless the Governor, within five days next after the adjournment, Sundays excepted, shall file such bill, with his objections thereto, in the office of the Secretary of State, who shall lay the same before the Legislative Assembly at its next session, in like manner as if it had been returned by the Governor. Or., 453.

—If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days, Sunday excepted, after it shall have been presented to him, it shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the General Assembly, by their adjournment prevented its return, in which case it shall be a law, unless sent back within three days after their next meeting. Pa., 462.

—And, that time may be always allowed the Governor to consider bills passed by the General Assembly, neither House shall read any bill on the last day of its session, except such bills as have been returned by the Governor as herein provided. S. C., 486.

—Every bill presented to the Governor one day previous to the adjournment of the Legislature, and not returned to the House in which it originated before its adjournment, shall become a law, and have the same force and effect as if signed by the Governor. The Governor may approve any appropriation, and disapprove any other appropriation in the same bill. In such case, he shall, in signing the bill designate the appropriations disapproved, and shall return a copy of such appropriations, with his objections to the House in which the bill shall have originated; and the same proceedings shall then be had as in the case of other bills disapproved by the Governor; but if the Legislature has adjourned before the bill is returned to the House, he shall return the same to the Secretary of State, with his objections, and also to the next session of the Legislature. Tex., 513.

—To the end that laws, before they are enacted, may be more maturely considered, and the inconvenience of hasty determinations as much as possible prevented, all bills which originate in the Assembly, shall be laid before the Governor and Council, for their revision and concurrence, or proposals of amendment, who shall return the same to the Assembly, with their proposals of amendment, if any, in writing; and if the same are not agreed to by the Assembly, it shall be in the power of the Governor and Council to suspend the passing of such bills until the next session of the Legislature; Provided, That if the Governor and Council shall neglect or refuse to return any such bill to the Assembly, with written proposals of amendment, within five days, or before the rising of the Legislature, the same shall become a law.] Vi., 525.

ARTICLE VII.

1 § 1. After paying the expenses of collection, superintendence and ordinary 2 repairs, there shall be appropriated and set apart in each fiscal year, out of
3 the revenues of the State canals, in each year, commencing on the first day
4 of June, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, the sum of one million
5 and three hundred thousand dollars, until the first day of June, one thousand 6 eight hundred and fifty-five, and from that time the sum of one million and 7 seven hundred thousand dollars in each fiscal year, as a sinking fund to pay
8 the interest and redeem the principal of that part of the State debt called the 9 canal debt, as it existed at the time first aforesaid, and including three hun-
10 dred thousand dollars then to be borrowed, until the same shall be wholly 11 paid ; and the principal and income of the said sinking fund shall be sacredly
12 applied to that purpose.

1 § 2. After complying with the provisions of the first section of this article,
2 there shall be appropriated and set apart out of the surplus revenues of the 3 State canals, in each fiscal year, commencing on the first day of June, one
4 thousand eight hundred and forty-six, the sum of three hundred and fifty
5 thousand dollars, until the time when a sufficient sum shall have been appro-
6 priated and set apart, under the said first section, to pay the interest and 7 extinguish the entire principal of the canal debt ; and after that period, then 8 the sum of one million and five hundred thousand dollars in each fiscal year,
9 as a sinking fund, to pay the interest and redeem the principal of that part of 10 the State debt called the general fund debt, including the debt for loans of the 11 State credit to railroad companies which have failed to pay the interest
12 thereon, and also the contingent debt on State stocks loaned to incorporated
13 companies which have hitherto paid the interest thereon, whenever and as far 14 as any part thereof may become a charge on the treasury or general fund,
15 until the same shall be wholly paid ; and the principal and income of the said
16 last mentioned sinking fund shall be sacredly applied to the purpose aforesaid ;
17 and if the payment of any part of the moneys to the said sinking fund shall 18 at any time be deferred, by reason of the priority recognized in the first sec-19 tion of this article, the sum so deferred, with quarterly interest thereon, at

20 the then current rate, shall be paid to the last mentioned sinking fund, as soo
21 as it can be done consistently with the just rights of the creditors holding said
22 canal debt.

1 § 3. After paying the said expenses of collection, superintendence and
2 repairs of the canals, and the sums appropriated by the first and second sec-
3 tions of this article, there shall be appropriated and set apart in each fiscal year
4 out of the surplus revenues of the canals, as a sinking fund, a sum sufficient
5 to pay the interest as it falls due, and extinguish the principal within eighteen 6 years, of any loan made under this section ; and if the said sinking fund shall
7 not be sufficient to redeem any part of the principal at the stipulated times
8 of payment, or to pay any part of the interest of such loans as stipulated, 9 the means to satisfy any such deficiency shall be procured on the credit of the 10 said sinking fund. After complying with the foregoing provisions, there shall 11 be paid annually out of said revenues, into the treasury of the State, two 12 hundred thousand dollars, to defray the necessary expenses of government.
13 The remainder shall, in each fiscal year, be applied to meet the appropriations
14 for the enlargement and completion of the canals mentioned in this section, 15 until the said canals shall be completed. In each fiscal year thereafter the 16 remainder shall be disposed of in such manner as the Legislature may direct ; 17 but shall at no time be anticipated or pledged for more than one year in 18 advance. The Legislature shall, annually, during the next four years, appro-
19 priate to the enlargement of the Erie, the Oswego, the Cayuga and Seneca
20 canals, and to the completion of the Black River and Genesee Valley canals, 21 and for the enlargement of the locks of the Champlain canal, whenever, from 22 dilapidation or decay, it shall be necessary to rebuild them, a sum not exceed-23 ing two millions two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The remainder of 24 the revenues of the canals, for the current fiscal year in which such appro-
25 priation is made, shall be applied to meet such appropriation ; and if the same
26 shall be deemed insufficient, the Legislature shall, at the same session, provide 27 for the deficiency by loan. The Legislature shall also borrow one million and 28 five hundred thousand dollars, to refund to the holders of the canal revenue
29 certificates issued under the provisions of chapter four hundred and eighty-

30 five of the laws of the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, the 31 amount received into the treasury thereon ; but no interest to accrue after 32 July first, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, shall be paid on such 33 certificates. The provisions of section twelve of this article, requiring every 34 law for borrowing money to be submitted to the people, shall not apply to the 35 loans authorized by this section. No part of the revenues of the canals, or 36 of the funds borrowed under this section, shall be paid or applied upon or in 37 consequence of any alleged contract made under chapter four hundred and 38 eighty five of the laws of the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, 39 except to pay for work done or materials furnished prior to the first day of 40 June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two. The rates or toll on persons 41 and property transported on the canals shall not be reduced below those for 42 the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, except by the Canal
43 Board, with the concurrence of the Legislature. All contracts for work or 44 materials on any canal shall be made with the person who shall offer to do or 45 provide the same at the lowest price, with adequate security for their 46 performance.

1 § 4. The claims of the State against any incorporated company to pay the
2 interest and redeem the principal of the stock of the State loaned or advanced
3 to such company, shall be fairly enforced, and not released or compromised ;
4 and the moneys arising from such claims shall be set apart and applied as part 5 of the sinking fund, provided in the second section of this article. But the 6 time limited for the fulfillment of any condition of any release or compromise
7 heretofore made or provided for may be extended by law.

1 § 5. If the sinking funds, or either of them provided in this article, shall
2 prove insufficient to enable the State, on the credit of such fund, to procure
3 the means to satisfy the claims of the creditors of the State as they become
4 payable, the Legislature shall, by equitable taxes, so increase the revenues
5 of the said funds as to make them, respectively, sufficient perfectly to preserve
6 the public faith. Every contribution or advance to the canals, or their debt,
7 from any source other than their direct revenues, shall, with quarterly interest,
8 at the rates then current, be repaid into the treasury, for the use of the State,

9 out of the canal revenues, as soon as it can be done consistently with the just 10 rights of the creditors holding the said canal debt.

1 § 6. The Legislature shall not sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any of the 2 canals of the State; but they shall remain the property of the State and
3 under its management forever.

1 § 7. The Legislature shall never sell or dispose of the Salt Springs belong-
2 ing to this State. The lands contiguous thereto, and which may be necessary
3 and convenient for the use of the Salt Springs, may be sold by authority of 4 law, and under the direction of the Commissioners of the Land Office, for the 5 purpose of investing the moneys arising therefrom in other lands alike con-
6 venient; but by such sale and purchase, the aggregate quantity of these
7 lands shall not be diminished.

1 § 8. No moneys shall ever be paid out of the treasury of this State, or any
2 of its funds, or any of the funds under its management, except in pursuance
3 of an appropriation by law; nor unless such payment be made within two
4 years next after the passage of such appropriation act; and every such law,
5 making a new appropriation or continuing or reviving an appropriation,
6 shall distinctly specify the sum appropriated, and the object to which it
7 is to be applied; and it shall not be sufficient for such law to refer to any 8 other law to fix such sum.

1 § 9. The credit of the State shall not, in any manner, be given or loaned
2 to or in aid of any individual association or corporation.

—This Constitution shall be submitted to the people for their adoption or rejection, at the general election to be held on the _____, and there shall also be submitted for adoption or rejection, at the same time, the separate resolution in relation to the elective franchise; and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State, and all other officers required to give or publish any notice in regard to the said general election, to give notice, as provided by law in case of an election of Governor, that this Constitution has been duly submitted to the electors at said election. Every newspaper within this State publishing, in the month of September next, this Constitution as submitted, shall receive, as compensation therefor, the sum of twenty-five dollars, to be paid as the Legislature shall direct. Mich., 317.

—Shall be separately submitted to the electors of this State for their adoption or rejection, in form following, to wit: A separate ballot may be given by every person having the right to vote for the revised Constitution, to be deposited in a separate box. Upon the ballots given for the adoption of the said separate amendment shall be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, the words "Equal suffrage to colored persons? Yes;" and upon all ballots given against the adoption of the said separate amendment, in like manner, the words "Equal suffrage to colored persons? No." And on such ballots shall be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, the words "Constitution: Suffrage," in such manner that such words shall appear on the outer side of such ballot when folded. If, at said election, a majority of all the votes given for and against the said separate amendment shall contain the words "Equal suffrage to colored persons? Yes," then there shall be inserted in the first section of the article, between the words "tribe and shall," these words, "and every colored male inhabitant," anything in the Constitution to the contrary notwithstanding. Mich., 318.

—Any person entitled to vote for members of the Legislature, by the Constitution and laws now in force, shall, at the said election, be entitled to vote for the adoption or rejection of this Constitution, and for or against the resolution separately submitted, at the places and in the manner provided by law for the election of members of the Legislature. Mich., 317.

The returns for all officers elected at large shall be canvassed by the Governor of the Territory, assisted by Joseph R. Brown and Thomas J. Galbraith, at the time designated by law for canvassing the vote for delegate to Congress. Minn., 332.

—If, upon canvassing the votes for and against the adoption of this Constitution, it shall appear that there has been polled a greater number of votes against than for it, then no certificates of election shall be issued for any State or district officer provided for in this Constitution, and no State organization shall have validity within the limits of the territory until otherwise provided for, and until a Constitution for a State government shall have been adopted by the people. Minn., 332.

—In voting for or against the adoption of this Constitution, the words "for Constitution," or "against Constitution," may be written or printed on the ticket of each voter; but no voter shall vote for or against this Constitution on a separate ballot from that cast by him for officers to be elected at said election under this Constitution; and if, upon the canvass of the vote so polled, it shall appear that there was a greater number of votes polled for than against said Constitution, then this Constitution shall be deemed to be adopted as the Constitution of the State of Minnesota; and all the provisions and obligations of this Constitution, and of the schedule hereunto attached, shall thereafter be valid, to all intents and purposes, as the Constitution of this State. Min., 332.

—The preceding parts of this instrument shall not take effect unless this Constitution be adopted by the people at the election to be held as hereinafter directed; but the provisions of this article shall be in force from the day of the adoption of this Constitution by the Representatives of the people in this Convention assembled. Mo., 363.

Within twenty days after such election the Secretary of State shall open the returns thereof in the presence of the Governor; and if it shall appear that a majority of all the votes cast at such election are in favor of the Constitution, the Governor shall issue his proclamation, stating that fact, and said Constitution shall be the Constitution of the State of Ohio, and not otherwise. Ohio, 445.

—At the time when the votes of the electors shall be taken for the adoption or rejection of this Constitution, the additional section, in the words following, to wit: "No license to traffic in intoxicating liquors shall hereafter be granted in this State; but the General Assembly may, by law, provide against evils resulting therefrom," shall be separately submitted to the electors for adoption or rejection, in form following, to wit: A separate ballot may be given by every elector and deposited in a separate box. Upon the ballots given for said separate amendment shall be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, the words: "License to sell intoxicating liquors—Yes;" and upon the ballots given against said amendment, in the like manner, the words: "License to sell intoxicating liquors—No." If, at the said election, a majority of all the votes given for and against said amendment shall contain the words: "License to sell intoxicating liquors—No," then the said amendment shall be a separate section of article fifteen of the Constitution. Ohio, 445.

—For the purpose of taking the vote of the electors of the State for the acceptance or rejection of this Constitution, an election shall be held on the —, to be conducted according to existing laws regulating the election of Delegate in Congress, so far as applicable, except as herein otherwise provided. Or., 459.

—If a majority of all the votes given for and against the Constitution shall be given for the Constitution, then this Constitution shall be deemed to be approved and accepted by the electors of the State, and shall take effect accordingly; and if a majority of such votes shall be given against the Constitution, then this Constitution shall be deemed to be rejected by the electors of the State, and shall be void. Or., 459.

—If this Constitution shall be ratified, an election shall be held on the first Monday in June, 1858, for the election of members of the Legislative Assembly, a Representative in Congress, and State and county officers; and the Legislative Assembly shall convene at the capital the first Monday of July, 1858, and proceed to elect two Senators in Congress, and make such further provisions as may be necessary to the complete organization of a State government. Or., 460.

And also this question:

 3 Legislature may by law provide, the question, "Shall there be a Convention
 4 to revise the Constitution and amend the same?" shall be decided by the

[The mode of amendment specified in § 1, of Art. XIII, was adopted in 1821]. P. 43; (nearly similar), Cal., 103; La., 237; N. J., 420; Or., 459; W. Va., 558; Wis., 570.

—The General Assembly may, whenever two-thirds of each House shall deem it necessary, propose amendments to this Constitution; which proposed amendments shall be duly published in print (in such manner as the General Assembly may direct), at least three months before the next general election for Representatives, for the consideration of the people; and it shall be the duty of the several returning officers, at the next ensuing general election for Representatives, to open a poll for the vote of the qualified electors on the proposed amendments, and to make a return of said vote to the Secretary of State; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of all the qualified electors of the State, who voted for Representatives, voted in favor of the proposed amendments, and two-thirds of each house of the next General Assembly, before another election, shall ratify said amendments, each house voting by yeas and nays, said amendments shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as parts of this Constitution. Provided, that said proposed amendments shall, at each of said sessions of the General Assembly, have been read three times, on three several days, in each house. Ala., 82.

—After the expiration of twelve months from the adoption of this Constitution, no Convention shall be held for the purpose of altering or amending the Constitution of this State, unless the question of Convention or no Convention, shall be first submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State, and approved by a majority of the electors voting at said election. Ala., 82.

—The General Assembly may, at any time, propose such amendments to this Constitution as two-thirds of each House shall deem expedient, which shall be published in all the newspapers published in this State, three several times, at least twelve months before the next general election; and if, at the first session of the General Assembly after such general election, two-thirds of each House shall, by yeas and

No Convention shall be called but by the authority of the people; and an unexceptionable mode of making their sense known will be for them at a special election on the third Tuesday of May in any year, to vote by ballot for or against a Convention, as they shall severally choose to do; and if thereupon it shall appear that a majority of all the citizens in the State, having right to vote for Representatives, have voted for a Convention, the General Assembly shall accordingly at their next session call a Convention, to consist of at least as many members as there are in both Houses of the Legislature, to be chosen in the same manner, at the same places and at the same time that Representatives, are by the citizens entitled to vote for Representatives, on due notice given for one month, and to meet within three months after they shall be elected. The majority of all the citizens in the State having right to vote for Representatives shall be ascertained by reference to the highest number of votes cast in the State at any one of the three general elections, next preceding the day of voting for a Convention, except when they may be less than the whole number of votes voted both for and against a Convention, in which case the said majority shall be ascertained by reference to the number of votes given on the day of voting for or against a Convention; and whenever the General Assembly shall deem a Convention necessary, they shall provide by law for the holding of a special election for the purpose of ascertaining the sense of the majority of the citizens of the State entitled to vote for Representatives. Del., 126.

—And if at any time two-thirds of the Senate and Assembly shall think it necessary to revise and change this entire Constitution, they shall recommend to the electors, at the next election for members of the Legislature, to vote for or against the Convention; and if it shall appear that a majority of the electors voting at such election have voted in favor of calling a Convention, the Legislature shall at its next session provide by law for calling a Convention, to be holden within six months after the passage of such law; and such Convention shall consist of a number of members not less than that of both branches of the Legislature. Cal., 103.

—Whenever a majority of the House of Representatives shall deem it necessary to alter or amend this Constitution, they may propose such alterations and amendments; which proposed amendments shall be continued to the next General Assembly, and be published with the laws which may have been passed at the same session; and if two-thirds of each House, at the next session of said Assembly, shall approve the amendment proposed, by yeas and nays, said amendment shall by the Secretary be transmitted to the Town Clerk in each town in the State, whose duty it shall be to present the same to the inhabitants thereof for their consideration, at a town meeting legally warned and held for that purpose; and if it shall appear, in manner to be provided by law, that a majority of the electors present at such meetings shall have approved such amendments, the same shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as a part of this Constitution. Cl., 113.

But the General Assembly shall not have power to propose an amendment or amendments to more than one article of the Constitution at the same session. Ill., 165.

—Any amendment or amendments to this Constitution may be proposed in either branch of the General Assembly, and if the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two Houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall, with the yeas and nays thereon, be entered on their journals, and referred to the General Assembly to be chosen at the next general election; and if, in the General Assembly so next chosen, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each House, then it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to submit such amendment or amendments to the electors of the State; and if a majority of said electors shall ratify the same, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of this Constitution. Ind., 181; (nearly similar), Iowa, 193; Nev., 392; Pa., 468.

—If two or more amendments shall be submitted at the same time, they shall be submitted in such manner that the electors shall vote for or against each of such amendments separately; and while an amendment or amendments which shall have been agreed upon by one General Assembly shall be awaiting the action of a succeeding General Assembly, or of the electors, no additional amendment or amendments shall be proposed. Ind., 181; Or., 459.

—At the general election to be held in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy, and in each tenth year thereafter, and also at such time as the General Assembly may, by law, provide, the question, "Shall there be a Convention to revise the Constitution, and amend the same?" shall be decided by the electors qualified to vote for members of the General Assembly; and in case a majority of the electors so qualified, voting at such election for and against such proposition, shall decide in favor of a Convention for such purpose, the General Assembly, at its next session shall provide by law for the election of delegates to such convention. Iowa, 193.

When more than one amendment shall be submitted at the same time, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on each amendment separately; and not more than three propositions to amend shall be submitted at the same election. Kan., 205.

—Whenever two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the Legislature shall think it necessary to call a Convention to revise, amend or change this Constitution, they shall recommend to the electors to vote at the next election of members to the Legislature, for or against a Convention; and if a majority of all the electors voting at such election shall have voted for a Convention, the Legislature shall, at the next session, provide for calling the same. Kan., 206.

—When experience shall point out the necessity of amending this Constitution, and when a majority of all the members elected to each House of the General Assembly shall, within the first twenty days of any regular session, concur in passing a law for taking the sense of the good people of this Commonwealth, as to the necessity and expediency of calling a convention, it shall be the duty of the several Sheriffs, and other officers of elections, at the next general election which shall be held for Representatives to the General Assembly, after the passage of such law, to open a poll for, and make return to the Secretary of State, for the time being, of the names of all those entitled to vote for Representatives, who have voted for calling a Convention; and if, thereupon, it shall appear that a majority of all the citizens of this State, entitled to vote for Representatives, have voted for calling a Convention, the General Assembly shall, at their next regular session, direct that a similar poll shall be opened, and return made for the next election for Representatives; and if, thereupon, it shall appear that a majority of all the citizens of this State, entitled to vote for Representatives, have voted for calling a Convention, the General Assembly shall, at their next session, pass a law calling a Convention, to consist of as many members

And for the purpose of ascertaining whether a majority of the citizens, entitled to vote for Representatives, did or did not vote for calling a Convention, as above, the General Assembly passing the law authorizing such vote, shall provide for ascertaining the number of citizens entitled to vote for Representatives within the State. Ky., 222.

When two or more amendments shall be submitted by the General Assembly to the qualified electors of the State at the same election, they shall be so submitted that the electors may vote for or against each amendment separately. Md., 276.
